LICENSE QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—Astray sometimes shows which way the wind blows. Your endorsement of the article on the above subject, copied from the Commercial, in your issue of the 13th Dec., of your enterprising paper will no doubt greatly excite a certain class of persons in our rapidly rising and thriving community, in that they have now a public advocate of their views on this serious question. Others will be found who cannot accept all contained therein. While others again, who greatly dread the slightest approach of what they call the monster evil in the above or in any other form, can detect nothing but specious statements intended to mislead. The last of course will feel somewhat alarmed and not a little agitated as this "coming evil" is shown here.

All these matters however admit that the government has greatly failed in carrying out a strictly prohibitory law in the North West. Whether this was the intention or not any one may see how gradually and perceptibly the so called monster has been creeping in, and it is only waiting to be provoked, before it properly manifests its system.

Not being sure to allow this to pass unnoticed.

It is stated that the law was enacted "to regulate the traffic in There of society? What harm in the glass? Do not all desire life, and does not strong drink stimulate the energies and elevate the depressed spirits, vivify thought and give a glow to the imagination? Is there not this elevating element in drink? Yes, this is what we need, such jolly good days as we have for the after-coming days when we are all dead and gone, the danger of spirits, the desecrating and despoiling of thought and imagination and the sense of when all is over.

This is putting it mild, and yet, from a moral point of view Prohibition appears to be a worse light, in seeking to destroy that which takes the glow of health from the cheek, the lustre from the eye, the beauty from the face, the strength from the limb, the firmness from the step, the vigor from the arm, the vitality from the blood, the reason from the brain, and the love from the heart. For all this—here it is—"intelligent white settlers" the despicable creature who would advocate measures to suppress so great a "boom" as the social glass is arranged for "introducing the thin edge of the wedge of the worst form of social tyranny."

Not only is there a great deal of article used in evaluating the law, but also in the selling of a license. "The state action and use of deleterious causes and extracts are far more harmful than the moderate use of unadulterated liquor," and the moderate use of the latter is far more harmful than the proper use of tea and coffee. It is supposed of course that by licensing one of those deleterious though such much advocate, those who have been addicted to drinking such harmful liquors as Jan-guary, Perry Davis Pain Killer, etc., will be more moderate in the use of such unadulterated liquor. This will be such a change for the better, then probably they will moderate into the less harmful still. We beside those who are fond of the stronger liquors, we shall be a fearful hard to moderate.

This licensed dealer, one of earth's noble sons, will set to order all the confined state of drinking, and having the monopoly in his line of business, which also may accord with another action of commerce," will place before his numerous and thirsty customers the celebrated "unadulterated liquor with the advice that is only to be drunk in moderation."

What lively times! How the money will flow! How rich everyone will be some! Wouldn't even have time to say prayers? Yes, the money goes, but popous the waste. The dealer is supposed to be a good deal of money as the next one He therefore will do a roaring business!
He will not only while others will succumb.
His is all gain, while others all loss.
Nothing like monopoly, what other loss has the same privilege. Who wouldn't pay for a license to have the whole run of a town or community? His "unadulterated liquor" so called all comers, the poor as well as the rich. No money, no drink. Drink and no money, kicked out. The dry goods merchant gives an equivalent of clothing for your money. The shoe merchant gives you shoes. The butcher and grocer gives you food. The lawyer gives legal advice and eloquence in the defence of your rights. The physician stands between loved ones and death. The mechanic and artisan all give a fair return for your money. While this angel of a man, the rum-seller, stands alone in taking money without giving a fair equivalent.
Here is where the money goes that makes men poor and keeps them poor. That makes wives wail, children orphan, fathers broke and all of them paupers and beggars. That covers the land with illness and poverty, disease and crime, that fills the jails, swells the almshouses and necessitates the erection of asylums, that crowd penitentiaries and furnishes victims for the scaffold, that countenances the liar, respects the thief, and obscures the blasphemer, that violates obligation, reverences fraud and honors hypocrisy! Surely the honorable and respected rum-seller will do a roaring business! Hatten steps he would take to be the benefactor of our flourishing town and more widely, of our great country which is becoming so thickly settled and accessible for travel, and throw to the winds that "law which was designed to regulate the habits of the Indians."

THE PRINCE ALBERT TIMES.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1883

THE LATE ACCIDENT.

Now that the first feeling of horror at the late frightful accident at the Hudson Bay Company's mill, at Gosschen, which resulted in the death of Mr. Shubael Cochran, has passed away, people are beginning to enquire whether there are sufficient safeguards in this, and other mills, to protect the lives and limbs of those employed in them. It is very much to be regretted, for several reasons, that an investigation before a coroner's jury did not take place. Whilst there may be no suspicion, or imputation of unfair means, or of wilful negligence on the part of any one, causing death, yet we think there were in this case sufficient circumstances which called for investigation. In the other provinces of the Dominion, in all cases, where death has been caused by accidents from machinery, in steam mills, manufactories, steamboats or railroads, an investigation by a coroner's jury is invariably held. This done for the purpose of satisfying the public mind, of clearing or inculpating as the case may be, the conduct of others, and for the satisfaction of the relatives and friends of the deceased. In the North West Territories the law on this subject is as follows:

"Except as hereinafter provided, no inquest shall be held upon the body of any deceased person, by any coroner unless it has been made to appear to such coroner, that there is reason to believe the deceased died from violence or unfair means, or culpable or negligent conduct, either of himself or of others, under such circumstances as require investigation, and not through mere accident or mischance."

There can be no doubt then of the power of the Coroner to direct such an investigation. In this case there would seem to be circumstances which peculiarly called for the exercise of this power. A man recently employed in the mill, of no previous experience, as far as is known, in mill machinery, whose duties it does not appear to have been to have had charge of the belting, comes up to the flat, where the belt had become loosened from a wheel, for another purpose, and is directed by the miller, a man of long experience in such matters, to adjust the belting. He attempts to do so, and ascends to a platform for that purpose, and whilst the miller's back is turned, the unfortunate man is caught in the machinery, nobody knows exactly how, but it is supposed his clothes were caught in a cogwheel close by, and he is crushed to death.

The miller in an informal statement, not under oath, made before the Coroner, said that the deceased attempted to adjust the belt from the wrong side of the wheel, against repeated warnings, which he had given him to that effect. Thus imputing "negligent conduct" on the part of the man, whose lips are sealed by death. Subsequent enquiry has elicited the fact that there is a difference of opinion upon this point. Some say that he went up on the side of the wheel, where there was a sort of a platform, and that if he was on the wrong side, then the platform must also be on the wrong side; again others say that he went up on the only side by which access could be had to the wheel.

Whatever story may be correct and at present we pass no opinion upon the subject, sufficient is known, to show that there was abundant need for an investigation, whatever may have been the result. It is but fair to state, that the Chief Factor of the Hudson Bay Company, Hon. Laurence Clarke, ~~son of Col.~~ Richardson, who happened to be here holding his Court, and who by virtue of his office as Stipendiary Magistrate holds the position of coroner in the North West Territories, and expressed his willingness to have an inquest if the Coroner thought it was required. Col. Richardson said that as far as the informal evidence produced before him went, he did not consider it necessary, but if anything turned up before he left Prince Albert to warrant it, he was perfectly ready to hold an inquest, and so the matter rested. It appears to be the impression amongst some, that it was necessary, in order to have a coroner's inquest held that an information on oath must be laid imputing wilful negligence on the part of some one, or showing a suspicion of foul play. But such is not the case. We repeat again, without imputing blame to anyone, that it would have been much more satisfactory to all parties concerned if a Coroner's investigation had taken place. It would have been more satisfactory to the fellow workman of the deceased, the only witness of the accident, to the public mind which has been excited by conflicting stories on the subject, to the Company whose duty it should be to court the fullest enquiry into the character of the machinery, and the nature of the safeguards against accidents, and to the friends, and relatives of the unfortunate victim of this accident, who live in a distant part of the Dominion.

PRINCE ALBERT, N. W. T.

TO THE PUBLIC.

We have made arrangements to leave papers at T. J. Agnew's hardware store, the Post Office, T. N. Campbell's news store and Mackley & Co's dry goods store. Those living near any of the above mentioned places will find their papers there. Also at this office.

ENTERTAINMENT.

The Sabbath School entertainment held in the Methodist church on the evening of the New Year was very enjoyable to all who had the pleasure of attending, and is well worth a repetition. The following is the programme, each one doing their part very creditably: Opening hymn. "All hail the power of Jesus name." Prayer. A little song, by the pastor. Recitation by James Eby—"Wreck of the Orpheus." Singing by the children—"Jawala." Recitation by Clara Pridie—"Be gentle." Recitation by John Turner—"Over and over again." Recitation by Melissa Carter—"Who will bear the sheaves away." Singing by Manly—"Jesus loves me." Recitation by Annie McFadyen—"No time like the present." Recitation by Annie Case—"The foolish little maiden." Recitation by Tommy Patterson—"Little things make big things." Song by James and Willie—"Straight ahead." Recitation by Alice Patterson—"The better land." Song by Annie Case—"Pilgrims of the night." Recitation by Robert Plaxton—"Prayer and potatoes." Recitation by Eliza Eby—"Nellie Grace." Singing by the children—"Come to the Saviour." Recitation by George Stephens—"The ant and the cricket." Song by James and Willie—"Over the snow." Recitation by Amos Plaxton—"The Editor." Singing by the children—"Yield not to temptation." Recitation by Willie Eby—"Only a boy." Reading and recitation by Wm. Loran. Song by Mr. Hamilton. Speech by little Manly. God save the Queen. Doxology.

LONGEVITY.

We had the pleasure of a conversation with old Mr. George McKay the other day, and were glad to see him looking so hale and hearty. On enquiring his age, he said that he was just about completing his sixth year—to-day or to-morrow—as that he has almost a nonagenarian. Mr. McKay is probably the oldest settler on the Red River, having come to this country from Scotland in the year 1815, and been here ever since. His reminiscences of the early history of this country are very interesting and valuable, his memory being as sound as his body, and we propose spending an hour or so with him some day in order to get a few notes of his experiences and recollections of this country in its earlier days. We congratulate the old gentleman upon his birthday, and hope that aged though he is, he will live to see more of them. On the morning we were talking to him on the street the thermometer was about 40° below, and whilst his juniors were muffled to the eyes and ears in furs and wrappings, the old gentleman had no overcoat on and no suspicion of furs or wrappings, and yet he said he didn't feel the cold at all. What is the trick of the present generation any to that?

The goods of Mr. T. E. Jackson's will arrive to-morrow. Call at his new store at the Mission.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
Ottawa, 10th July, 1881.
PROVOST.His Excellency the Governor-General in Council.On the recommendation of the Honourable the Acting Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs, and under the provisions of the first section of the Act passed in the session of the Parliament of Canada held in the 44th year of His Majesty's said Majesty, chapter 10, entitled "An Act to amend the Indian Act, 1880."The Excellency, by and with the consent of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada, has been pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the following regulations be, and the same are hereby made and adopted: "No band or irregular band of Indians, and no band of half-breed, or any other band in the North-West Territory, may, without the consent in writing of the Indian Agent for the locality, sell, barter, exchange, or give to any person or persons whatsoever, any grain or root crops, or any other produce grown on any reserve in the North-West Territory, or any land reserved for service, and any such sale, barter, exchange or gift shall be absolutely null and void, unless the same be made in accordance with the provisions and regulations hereby prescribed, and any such grain or root crops or other produce unlawfully in the possession of any person or persons shall be liable to be seized and taken possession of by any person acting under the authority of either general or special of the Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs, and to be dealt with as the Superintendent-General, or any other or person thereunto by him authorized may direct."J. O. COLE, Clerk, Privy Council.
By forty-four Victoria, chapter seventeen, being "An Act to amend the Indian Act, 1880, sections two and three, it is provided that:"Any person who buys or otherwise acquires from any such Indian, or band, or irregular band of Indians, contrary to any provisions or regulations made by the Governor in Council under this Act, is guilty of an offence, and is liable, on summary conviction, by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, in any place of confinement other than a penitentiary, or by both the one and the other.""If any such crime or root crops or other produce as aforesaid be unlawfully in the possession of any person, within the intent and meaning of this Act, and of any provisions or regulations made by the Governor in Council under this Act, any person acting under the authority of either general or special of the Superintendent-General may, with such assistance in that behalf as he may think necessary, seize and take possession of the same, and he shall deal therewith as the Superintendent-General, or any officer or person thereunto by him authorized, may direct."J. O. DEWINKY, Indian Commissioner, Manitoba and North-West Territories.PATERSON & HANAFIN, REAL ES-TATE AGENTS AND AUCTIONEERS.

COMMUNICATION.

Our columns will be open to correspondence upon any subject of general or local interest, provided that the communications are brief, plainly written on one side of the paper, and are free from personalities of any kind, and are not couched in offensive language. We are determined that the columns of the Times shall be free from anything that could offend the most fastidious reader, and to this rule we intend to adhere most strictly. All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, which of course will be in confidence, otherwise they will be summarily consigned to the waste basket. We do not undertake to return rejected M.S.s.

THE RAILROAD.

Sir,--The delegates appointed to arrange with the South Saskatchewan Valley Railway Company for the building of a line of railway between Qu'Appelle and Prince Albert, upon certain terms and conditions, have returned from their mission about ten days ago, and up to this time, as far as I know, nothing authentic as to the result of their delegation has been made public. There have been sundry informal meetings, I understand, but the general public who are anxious to be informed as to the prospects of the railway being at once commenced and prosecuted are kept in the dark. Rumor has it that sundry kitchies have occurred in the arrangements since the arrival of the delegates and Mr. Fuller, one of the directors of the Company. That an extension of the time to five years (instead of three) for the completion of the road (about 200 miles), and to eighteen months (or July, 1884) for the building of the road to the South Branch, about fifteen or twenty miles, instead of the fall of 1883, has been requested. I believe also it has been demanded that one half of the McKenzie property (so called) must be put in with the rest, and so on. Can you, Mr. Editor, inform the public upon these matters, and oblige.

AN ENQUIRY.

Prince Albert, N.W.T., Jan. 8.
[In reply to our correspondent we may say that we have not been favored either by the delegates or the landowners with any information whatever as to the results of their mission, and therefore cannot furnish the information requested. We have heard the street rumors referred to by him as to extension of time, demand for more land, etc., but cannot vouch for their accuracy. It was currently reported when the delegates returned that everything had been satisfactorily arranged, and that the contract had been actually signed by both the contracting parties, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the power of attorney under which the delegates acted. Supposing this to be the case, we should imagine that such an agreement would be binding upon both parties, but in the absence of reliable information we are as much in the dark as our correspondent, and are not in a position to give any opinion of the merits of the case. We sincerely hope that there is no hitch in the negotiations, and that an enterprise which so largely concerns the best interests of Prince Albert will be successfully and promptly carried out. One thing is certain, that from whatever source it may come, Prince Albert need not will have line of railroad connecting with the C.P.R. -- and that right soon.]

OBITUARY.

Sir,--I notice in your issue of Dec. 27 that some poetic luminary under the name of "Magpie" has strained his gigantic intellect, to write an obituary to the defunct Parrot, and from the very poetic strain of the aforesaid obituary, I have come to the conclusion that there is a "shining light" hidden in our midst, who has thought it worth his while, once, to "cost his pearls before swine." He says that "the poor bird was fed with stale gossip from the roosts of other parrots defunct." But I have no doubt that the poetical "Magpie" would rather be fed from the stale kags of Magpie's alive. He also makes mention of the very doubtful hatching of the poor Parrot, and he is so, as "birds of a feather flock together." I must also say that "Magpie" has an eye for the beautiful that might cry Oswar. Wide to shame, he says "that the poor Parrot gathered up her pinions and took flight to a more congenial sphere," could Milton say more! And if it were not for the other beautiful stanza, "wind puffing," the illustrious "Magpie" might have recorded his name in the foremost rank in the annals of literature.
